The award-winning Maverick Theatre Company presents their critically acclaimed Fitzrovia Literary Pub Crawl especially for the Fitzrovia Food Festival. Explore places frequented by many of the great 19th and 20th century poets and writers, including Dickens, Brendan Behan, Dylan Thomas, Anthony Burgess, George Orwell and Virginia Woolf et al, and a few earlier writers such as Samuel Johnson and William Blake. See where Dylan Thomas met his wife and look at other incidents that inspired some great works. The tour also includes places visited and used by some more modern artists and writers. There are readings along the way, giving you a unique insight into an area of London that changed the world creatively. The show usually lasts two hours and finishes off with a Pie and a Pint (or Pud) at George Orwell's favourite pub, the family-owned Newmans Arms. This special show starts at 6.30pm and finishes when everyone has eaten and drunk their full at the Newmans.

Three top chefs from Fitzrovia join together to create a one-off gourmet meal with pre-dinner drinks and canapés. Marcus Eaves of the Michelin-starred Pied à Terre and Saber Laieb of Fino, will be working alongside Santino Busciglio of Elysée on the three course meal with matched wine per course. These will include Ridgeview Fitzrovia Sussex sparkling wine and artisan English spirits from Blackdown in the South Downs. Between courses. the chefs will talk to food writer Andrew Kay about their dishes, and our final course will be cheese boards from Premier Cheese owners of the famous La Cave á Fromage cheese shops in South Kensington, Notting Hill and Hove. Don't miss your chance to join us at this once-in-a-lifetime gastronomic experience.

Profits from this event will be donated to University College Hospital, and there will be a charity raffle on the evening.

ANTINO BUSCIGLIO | Elvsée

Born in Sicily, Santino has worked extensively as a chef across Europe before opening Mennula, his first restaurant on Charlotte Street, in 2009. He won critical acclaim after reaching the finals on Gordon Ramsey's F-Word in 2010 and became head chef of the Elysée in 2013, using his expertise of Mediterranean cuisine to create a truly eclectic modern Mediterranean menu while staying true to his Sicilian origins.

MARCUS EAVES | Pied à Terre

Marcus Eaves gained his first Michelin star at just 27-years-old - fourteen months after opening the doors of L'Autre Pied in 2007, in London's Marylebone. Today, Eaves runs the Pied à Terre kitchen and heads up the fantastic team, producing creative and exciting food that continues to delight both diners and critics alike.

SABER LAIEB | Fino

Saber started working in the kitchen at Fino in 2009. He works closely with Executive Head Chef Nieves on a day to day basis, making sure that the daily changing menu and the menu del dia are interesting and using the best seasonal ingredients available.

This is wine tasting as you've never seen it before. Each of our presenters – including wine growers, sommeliers and vintners – has three minutes to pitch their wine to you the voting audience... the only thing is that you're tasting the wine blind, and the presenter can't mention the grape variety, price or country of origin! It's fast, it's furious, and its a whole lot of fun!

Profits from this event will be donated to University College London Hospital, our chosen charity.

Feast@Fitzrovia's chosen charity is University College London Hospitals Charity (UCLH Charity).

They aim to make a real difference for the patients who visit the hospitals, by focusing on improving their experiences, either directly or indirectly.

Funds from our events will go towards the new development of a Proton Beam Centre, where children and adults will be treated, here in Fitzrovia. This will be one of only two centres for cancer therapy in the UK once completed. Building work will hopefully start in Spring 2015 with the aim to open the centre in 2018.

You can support UCLH Charity on www.justgiving.com/uclhc, Virgin Money Giving, join them on Facebook or follow them on twitter@UCLHCharity.
